EXPERTS AGREE
ON GERMANY'S FINANCE PLAN

Calls for Collection of Progressively Mounting Sums From Nation

REDUCE ALLIED CONTROL
Head of German Reichsbank
Called as Allied Commission Nears Agreement

Paris, March 12.—The experts investigating Germany's economic and financial situation did not conclude their hearing of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, which began this afternoon and the German financier has been recalled for a meeting of the banking sub-committee tomorrow morning.

The first committee of experts provided by Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes will hold a plenary session tomorrow afternoon.

It is believed the report of the experts will be virtually finished Saturday with the possibility of giving it to the press next week.

Collect Annual Sums
The plan for settling the reparations tangle the general lines of which have been agreed upon unanimously by the experts, calls for the collection of progressively mounting sums annually, according to the repudiation of Germany's recovery for a tentative period of five years.

There will be three principal sources of revenue—first, excise taxes on various monopolies such as matches, spirits and tobacco; second, interest from bonds to be issued by Germany's railways up to approximately half their estimated valuation and third, through dividends from stock in the new gold issue bank.

Reduce Allied Control
To reduce as far as possible allied control over Germany's production in order to give Germany the necessary incentive to produce the plan stipulates the minimum amount that must be set aside for the allies from each of three sources of revenue.

Once Germany satisfies this minimum which the experts are trying to place at a reasonable figure all the surplus will go to the German treasury to be used as the government sees fit. If Germany's producing capacity increases over the scale of payment fixed, the plan provides that at the end of five years there will be a revision of the scale of payments.

The revenue from all three sources will be divided among the allies according to the percentages decided at the Spa conference.

F. A. Pike, chairman of the state central committee of the Farmer-Labor party, is opposed to the plan. According to Mr. Pike the party should not be composed of clubs or other organizations but should be open to any voter in the state who desires to subscribe to its political purposes.

The Working Peoples Nonpartisan League will meet here Tuesday to decide its attitude on various state conventions and discuss platforms.

SNOW AND WIND SWEEPING OVER
NEW ENGLAND; SEVEN LIVES LOST

72-Mile Wind Is Recorded at Atlantic City Before Gale Sweeps on to New England—South Emerging From Cold Spell

New York, Mar. 12.—Unsettled after 24 hours, yesterday's storm blew northeastward today along the New England coast, buffeting shore towns and lashing the inland country.

The weather forecaster said it would last throughout the day.

The gale was abetted by a dense fall of snow and wire communication was badly hampered. Seven lives were known to be lost, five in New York City and two in Philadelphia and many persons were injured.

The wind reached 72 miles an hour at Atlantic City.

Much DAMAGE DONE
Atlanta, Ga., Mar. 12.—Generally fair weather in most southern states today forecast the end of the cold weather which has prevailed in the south for the last three days.

The sudden snap of cold weather accompanied by high winds caused serious breakage of wire communication in some sections.

VIRGINIA HIT
Richmond, Va., March 12.—Richmond and much of Virginia were cut off from the rest of the world for several hours yesterday when wire communications gave way beneath the weight of snow and sleet which had fallen continuously for more than 24 hours in the most damaging storm to sweep the state in many winters.

High winds, not experienced in Richmond, are reported to have joined the weight of the ice and snow in breaking down poles and grounding wires in neighboring sections.

127 BODIES
RECOVERED

First Funerals of Victims Held Today

Castle Gate, Utah, Mar. 12.—At 4:30 o'clock this morning 127 bodies had been recovered from the Utah Fuel Company mine No. 2 in which 173 men were entombed Saturday by an explosion.

Not a pump has been worked in the mine interior since the three blasts early Saturday morning put them out of order. As a result parts of the mine are declared to be flooded, which necessarily makes the removal of the remaining bodies extremely difficult.

Plans were made during the night to put out more pumps in operation this morning if possible in order that rescue crews can continue their work.

The first funerals of victims will be held today.

U. S. SUES FOR MONEY SPENT
AT NEW SALEM

Seeks to Recover Advances Made on Briquetting Scheme That Failed

SEVERAL DEFENDANTS
Strasburg Men Are Sued as Sureties on Bond Given To Government

Trial of the government's suit against John B. Adams, Fred Bremier, The Consolidated Lignite Collieries Company and several sureties on bonds for recovery of $227,84 expended by the government for engineering work preparatory to erection of a lignite coal briquetting plant at New Salem under a contract on which the government claims the defendants defaulted, opened before a jury in federal court today.

Sureties named as defendants are: M. Baumgartner, Ben Schneider, John J. Baumgartner, M. J. Fischer, Damiano Launer, Jakob Fischer, P. G. Ternes, A. J. Baumgartner, M. Brickner, R. Brickner and J. P. Henn, all of Strasburg and vicinity.

The government's suit sets out that a contract was entered into about April 10, 1920, between Adams and Bremier and Van H. Manning, director, Bureau of Mines, United States, under which the government with an appropriation for encouraging investigation into the briquetting of lignite coal, was to advance considerable sums of money and The Consolidated Collieries Company was to furnish a site and engage otherwise in the construction of a big briquetting and curing plant.

The government seeks to recover the money it actually expended. Neither Bremier, former director of utilities for the railroad commission, nor Adams appeared.

The government's suits says the defendants "refused to provide a satisfactory site at the mine of the Consolidated Lignite Collieries Company, refused to furnish bond or any other sum for the construction and installation of equipment for the briquetting and curing plant provided for in said proposal and have failed, neglected and refused to set aside and maintain any sum of money as a reserve fund to meet contingent requirements of said plant."

Bremier and Adams, however, had executed a bond for $200,000 and the defendants are sued as sureties. They deny liability.

Before this case was called in federal court a jury was impaneled and instructed to return a verdict for McCabe Bros. of Duluth against M. C. Egan and others on a note and interest totalling $44,253.71. The court said the defendants informed him they would make no defense.

War Mothers to Finance Plan For Erection of Suitable Memorial Here

PLANS BEING MADE
Eleven Chapters of War Mothers in State Expected to Undertake Work

During the recent meeting held in Bismarck of the State War Mothers, plans were made for the erection of a suitable monument at the west end of the Memorial Bridge that connects Bismarck and Mandan, for those service men who "went West" during the recent war, which will be prepared and placed by the eleven chapters of the American War Mothers of North Dakota.

Mrs. Jones, State War Mother, appointed a committee from the Bismarck, Mandan and Cannon Ball chapters to confer with the Highway Commission and complete arrangements for the erection of this memorial monument. Mrs. Robert Orr of this city is chairman of this committee. Mrs. Kidd and Mrs. A. B. Welch of Mandan are the other members acting with Mrs. Orr. The committee has met with the highway commission and secured permission for the erection of the monument and has consulted with the local monument works concerning prices of preparing a chiseled surface of the natural North Dakota boulder, which will be used, and lettering of the same. The required amount of money needed for this fund is approximately $500. The Bismarck chapter have been making plans but no definite action has been taken upon the schemes for raising funds for this purpose. At the time of the next regular meeting, which will be Tuesday, March 18, final arrangements will be made.

The local chapter, recently gave a food sale and expect to donate the receipts from the same to this memorial fund. They plan a number of teas and other social features where by the public may help out in raising the desired amount of money for this fund.

Mandan is taking its initial step in the starting of their fund, in a tea which is being given this afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. J. Hess, 311 Second Avenue N. All ladies of Mandan were invited to be present.

VALUATION
IS OPPOSED

State Opposed to Great Northern Proceedings

The valuation proceedings of the Great Northern Railroad, to be before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington in the next two weeks, will find the state of North Dakota opposing many of the claims put forward by the railroad company for a valuation of its property for rate-making purposes.

John Thorpe, first assistant attorney-general, will leave here Friday for Washington, with E. H. Morris, chief engineer of the state railroad commission, a witness, for the hearing. Mr. Morris and Mr. Thorpe will present exhibits intended to show that the Great Northern claims for land values, chiefly right-of-way and station and yards sites, are on an improper high basis, and also will contend that the construction cost applied to portions of the road in North Dakota are too high. An engineer investigated the Great Northern right of way, particularly from Minot to Montana county line, for the Attorney-General's office.

VET INSURANCE
PLAN STUDIED

Sub-committee Divided Over Soldier Bonus Procedure

Washington, Mar. 12.—Details of the insurance provision in the bill of the new soldier bonus bill were studied today again by the sub-committee of the house ways and means committee in an effort to complete the draft of the bill so that the measure may be reported to the house this week.

Insurance actuaries presented estimates as to the cost of paid-up life insurance policies to veterans. The cost estimates ranged on the basis to be adopted for figuring the values of the policies with opinions of committee members divided between valuing the policies on the number of days of service of veterans and the plan advanced by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, to fix the values on a scale of $400 for each six months of service with $1,600 as the maximum.

It was decided yesterday to place administration of the bill in the hands of the Veterans Bureau.

COOLIDGE POLICIES ARE ASSAILED
BY SENATOR JOHNSON SPEAKING HERE;
SAYS REPUBLICANS MUST CLEAN UP

California Senator, Asking North Dakota Support in Presidential Primary, Addresses Crowded House at Auditorium—Hits Mellon Plan, Suggests Adjusted Compensation, McNary-Haugen Bill

Senator Hiram Johnson, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in a speech last night to 1,400 people in the city Auditorium, laid his principles before the voters.

The California Senator criticized in unmeasured terms what he asserted were "vexatious" policies of the White House. He told the audience that the Republican party must sweep its own house clean or the people would sweep it clean in 1924.

Senator Johnson left here early today for Jamestown. He will speak in Devils Lake Saturday morning, weather permitting automobile travel from Minot, and in Grand Forks Saturday night, it was announced.

The California Senator, in his speech here, discussed the Teapot Dome inquiry, assailed the Mellon tax plan, spoke for soldiers adjusted compensation, defended his anti-league of Nations and World Court policy, condemned the Republican National committee's action in giving increased delegate representation to southern states, urged passage of the McNary-Haugen bill as the one real hope of agriculture, and condemned the nation's foreign policy.

BONUS PLAN DECIDED UPON

Washington, March 12. The paid-up life insurance policy which will be given veterans under the new soldiers bonus will be valued at $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service, it was decided today by the sub-committee of the house ways and means committee, framing the measure, and an additional 25 percent of the total amount of adjusted service credit would be allowed, thus making the basis on which compensation would be figured the same as in the bill passed last year.

COULTER PLAN
BILL SHELVED
IN U. S. SENATE

Substitute for Norbeck-Burt-ness Bill Is Proposed by Nebraska Senator

SOUTHERNERS OPPOSE
Declare Bill Represents a Gift to Four Northwestern States

Washington, March 12.—A substitute for the Norbeck-Burt-ness bill, the special farm relief measure pending before the senate was offered by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska. It would provide for the expenditure of $50,000,000 for financing diversification of crops in four northwestern states on what the author described as the "contract installment plan," similar, he said, to that used commonly by furniture stores, whereas the Norbeck-Burt-ness measure would provide for direct loans.

Senator Howell's substitute was presented just before the senate recessed late yesterday and after an attempt to have the Norbeck-Burt-ness bill recommitted had failed by a vote of 12 to 52. He explained it contemplated the purchase of livestock by the secretary of agriculture and its sale on "installment" to farmers. There was no opportunity for debate upon the Nebraska senator's suggestion, except by Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, who contended the same objection would lie against it as against the measure it sought to replace.

Cotton Aid Defeated
Debate which became at times bitter, preceded the elimination of a committee amendment offered by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, which would have added $25,000,000 for loans to cotton farmers. Senator Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, who had charge of the measure, urged the defeat of the amendment, declaring it had been added "solely for the purpose of getting this bill out of the committee."

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, immediately denounced such procedure, declaring it furnished the country a "pitiable spectacle."

Senator Harrison denied that the amendment had influenced that committee vote, asserting the Norbeck-Burt-ness bill would have been reported regardless of his modification. The bill was described as a "pure political gift to farmers of four states," by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia.

"The American farmer will never be assisted by a project which transfers his burden to the whole people," he said.

In addition to Senator Howell's substitute proposal, there remained to be acted on, the amendment of Senator Burton, Republican, New Mexico, appropriating $20,000,000 to bolster the credit of weakened banks in the northwest.

Corrects Former Story, Denying That He Gave Money to Secretary Fall

TELLS OF DAUGHERTY
Says Attorney-General Was Author of Message Telling Him Not to Worry

Washington, Mar. 12.—(By the A. P.)—Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, insisted under questioning before the oil committee today that he had told the truth when he testified at Palm Beach that he loaned A. B. Fall $100,000 in 1921 in checks, which afterwards were returned unencashed.

Sen. Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, as acting chairman, opened today's session. Sen. Lenroot, former chairman, announced his resignation from that position yesterday.

Although his bank balance did not show that amount on deposit his "credit was good" and Fall had agreed to notify him before attempting to cash the checks, he said.

This procedure, he said, "was not unusual and had nothing to do with the oil leasing program."

Fall's Request
When he first erroneously informed the committee that the loan had been made in cash he said he did so because Fall requested it at a conference they had in Atlantic City last December.

Asked to identify the "principal" in the celebrated message of last January 29, the witness said he didn't know who the "principal" was unless it was Senator Curtis of Kansas.

"None of my character," McLean said, when asked what service he had rendered as a dollar a year secret agent of the Department of Justice.

The main purpose of his appointment, he said, was to enable him by use of his badge to get through police lines "in strange cities" when traveling with President Harding's party.

Attorney-General Daugherty was identified by McLean as the author of a message telling the publisher not to worry and that he knew "what to depend upon."

BUYS CAR OF SEED WHEAT

P. C. Remington Ships it to Regan to be Distributed

P. C. Remington, President of the City National Bank, has ordered through the Russell Miller Milling Company a carload of Canadian wheat for seed, the variety variety, shipped to Regan, North Dakota, where Mr. Remington has a bank, to be distributed among the farmers and for his own use, with the distinct understanding that it is to be put in on corn ground or ground that has been summer fallowed.

The wheat came through and was unloaded at Regan on Saturday. This seed has all been disposed of and Mr. Remington has had many applications since its arrival for some of it.

Mr. Remington realized, he said, that we have been using for a long time, and this is what prompted him to get in this new seed. It is his intention to try and see that all the crop produced from this seed be saved and used for seed another year. In doing this he is in hopes of building up the wheat production and variety in this section of the country.

Birmingham, Ala., Mar. 12.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood will name Alabama's delegation to the New York convention on the basis of yesterday's Democratic primary in which he defeated L. B. Musgrove by a majority estimated at more than 20,000.

Musgrove refused to concede defeat and declared alleged frauds could be "exposed immediately." He also charged that the vote in some counties had been "manipulated in the interest of my opponent."

WOMEN TO BE ON SAME PLANE AS MEN IN ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

North Dakota women will be exactly upon the same plane as men when they step into the ballot booths in North Dakota next Tuesday. Each will receive the same ballot and no separate count will be maintained, as a result of legislative action. Heretofore notes of men and women were kept separately, due to a survival of laws which governed the voting when women had only partial franchise in the state.

The polls will be closed at 7 p. m. instead of 9 p. m., also a change made by the legislature, while the polls will open at 9 a. m., as usual. A new law prohibits judges from assisting illiterates in marking their ballots, and provides instead, according to Deputy Secretary of State Duffy, that the illiterate may be assisted by father, mother, husband, wife, son or daughter in marking the ballot.

An elector, according to an opinion rendered by John Thorpe, first assistant attorney-general, an elector shall be handed the ballot by the party which he declares himself affiliated with, at the election next Tuesday, regardless of whether he was registered with another party. The assistant attorney-general, quotes section 91, compiled laws of 1913 as follows:

"Each elector shall be handed the ballot of the party with which he declares himself affiliated, or with which he may have registered at the last preceding registration or election, etc."

The opinion continues: "It is our opinion that in accordance with the foregoing provision an elector has the right to declare himself affiliated with the political party of his choice and when he so does the ballot of such party must be handed to him. In case he refuses to declare his choice, then he must be handed the ballot of the party with which he registered at the last preceding registration."

VET INSURANCE PLAN STUDIED

Sub-committee Divided Over Soldier Bonus Procedure

Washington, Mar. 12.—Details of the insurance provision—the basis of the new soldier bonus bill—were studied today again by the sub-committee of the house ways and means committee in an effort to complete the draft of the bill so that the measure may be reported to the house this week.

Insurance actuaries presented estimates as to the cost of paid-up life insurance policies to veterans. The cost estimates hinged on the basis to be adopted for figuring the values of the policies with opinions of committee members divided between valuing the policies on the number of days of service of veterans and the plan advanced by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, to fix the values on a scale of $400 for each six months of service with $1,600 as the maximum.

It was decided yesterday to place administration of the bill in the hands of the Veterans Bureau.

COOLIDGE POLICIES ARE ASSAILED BY SENATOR JOHNSON SPEAKING HERE; SAYS REPUBLICANS MUST CLEAN UP

California Senator, Asking North Dakota Support in Presidential Primary, Addresses Crowded House at Auditorium—Hits Mellon Plan, Suggests, Adjusted Compensation, McNary-Haugen Bill

Senator Hiram Johnson, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, in a speech last night to 1,400 people in the city Auditorium, laid his principles before the voters.

The California Senator criticized in unmeasured terms what he asserted were "flailing" policies of the White House. He told the audience that the Republican party must sweep its own house clean or the people would sweep it clean in 1924.

Senator Johnson left here early today for Jamestown. He will speak in Devils Lake Saturday morning, weather permitting automobile travel from Minot, and in Grand Forks Saturday night, it was announced.

The California Senator, in his speech here, discussed the Teapot Dome inquiry, assailed the Mellon tax plan, spoke for soldiers adjusted compensation, defended his anti-League of Nations and World Court policy, condemned the Republican National committee's action in giving increased delegate representation to southern states, urged passage of the McNary-Haugen bill as the one real hope of agriculture, and condemned the nation's foreign policy.

BONUS PLAN DECIDED UPON

Washington, March 12.—The paid-up life insurance policy which will be given veterans under the new soldier bonus will be valued at $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service, it was decided today by the sub-committee of the house ways and means committee, framing the measure, and an additional 25 percent of the total amount of adjusted service credit would be allowed, thus making the basis on which compensation would be figured the same as in the bill passed last year.

COULTER PLAN BILL SHELVED IN U. S. SENATE

Substitute for Norbeck-Burt Business Bill Is Proposed by Nebraska Senator

SOUTHERNERS OPPOSE

Declare Bill Represents a Gift to Four Northwestern States

Washington, March 12.—A substitute for the Norbeck-Burt business bill, the special farm relief measure pending before the senate was offered by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska. It would provide for the expenditure of $50,000,000 for financing diversification of crops in four northwestern states on what the author described as the "contract in installment plan," similar, he said, to that used commonly by furniture stores, whereas the Norbeck-Burt measure would provide for direct loans.

Senator Howell's substitute was presented before the senate recessed last night and after an attempt to have the Norbeck-Burt measure recommitted had failed by a vote of 12 to 52. He explained it contemplated the purchase of livestock by the secretary of agriculture and its sale on "installment" to farmers. There was no opportunity for debate upon the Nebraska senator's suggestion, except by Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, who contended the same objections would lie against it as against the measure it sought to replace.

Debate which became at times bitter, preceded the elimination of a committed amendment offered by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, which would have added $25,000,000 for loans to cotton farmers. Senator Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, who had charge of the measure, declared it had been added "solely for the purpose of getting this bill out of the committee." Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, immediately denounced such procedure, declaring it furnished the country a "pitiable spectacle."

Senator Harrison denied that the amendment had influenced that committee vote, asserting the Norbeck-Burt bill would have been reported regardless of his modification. The bill was described as a "pure political gift to farmers of four states," by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia.

"The American farmer will never be assisted by a project which transfers his burden to the whole people," he said.

In addition to Senator Howell's substitute proposal, there remained to be acted on, the amendment of Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, appropriating $20,000,000 to bolster the credit of weakened banks in the northwest.

FROZEN FEET CAUSE DEATH
New Hradek, N. D., March 12.—After suffering more than a year or since February, 1923, when his feet were badly frozen in a storm, Mike Jablonsky, 55, died at his home near here.

THE MELLON TAX PLAN, he asserted, was dead.

"When the Senate of the United States gets through with the Mellon tax plan its progenitor won't know its own infant," the California Senator asserted.

He devoted considerable time to discussion of the Mellon bill, asserting that it proposed greater relief than that which the nation could afford.

PUBLISHER ON STAND INSISTS CHECKS GIVEN

Corrects Former Story, Denying That He Gave Money to Secretary Fall

TELLS OF DAUGHTERTY

Says Attorney-General Was Author of Message Telling Him Not to Worry

Washington, Mar. 12.—(By the A. P.)—Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, insisted under questioning before the oil committee today that he had told the truth when he testified at Palm Beach that he loaned A. B. Fall $100,000 in 1921 in checks which afterwards were returned unneeded.

Sen. Ladd, Republican, North Dakota, as acting chairman, opened today's session. Sen. Lenroot, former chairman, announced his resignation from that position yesterday.

Although his bank balance did not show that amount on deposit his "credit was good" and Fall had agreed to notify him before attempting to cash the checks, he said.

This procedure, he said, "was not unusual and had nothing to do with the oil leasing program."

Fall's Request
When he first erroneously informed the committee that the loan had been made in cash he said he did so because Fall requested it at a conference they had in Atlantic City last December.

Asked to identify the "principal" in the celebrated message of last January 29, the witness said he didn't know who the "principal" was unless it was Senator Curtis of Kansas.

"None of my character," McLean said, when asked what service he had rendered as a dollar a year secret agent of the Department of Justice.

The main purpose of his appointment, he said, was to enable him by use of his badge to get through police lines "in strange cities" when traveling with President Harding's party.

Attorney-General Daugherty was identified by McLean as the author of a message telling the publisher not to worry and that he knew "what to depend upon."

BUYS CAR OF SEED WHEAT

P. C. Remington Ships it to Regan to be Distributed

P. C. Remington, President of the City National Bank, has ordered through the Russell Miller Milling Company a carload of Canadian wheat for seed, of the Marquis variety, shipped to Regan, North Dakota, where Mr. Remington has a bank, to be distributed among the farmers and for his own use, with the distinct understanding that it is to be put in on corn ground or ground that has been summer fallowed.

The wheat came through and was unloaded at Regan on Saturday. This seed has all been disposed of and Mr. Remington has had many applications since its arrival for some of it.

Mr. Remington realized, he said, that we have been using the same old seed in this territory for a long time, and this is what prompted him to get in this new seed. It is his intention to try and see that all the crop produced from this seed be saved and used for seed another year. In doing this he is in hopes of building up the wheat production and variety in this section of the country.

Senator from Alabama Will Name Delegation

Birmingham, Ala., Mar. 12.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood will name Alabama's delegation to the New York convention on the basis of yesterday's Democratic primary in which he defeated L. B. Musgrove by a majority estimated at more than 20,000. Musgrove refused to concede defeat and declared alleged fraud would be "exposed immediately." He also charged that the vote in some counties had been "manipulated in the interest of my opponent."

Seven of Eight Candidates in New Hampshire Pledged
To Him

Manchester, N. H., Mar. 11.—Interest in the primary in New Hampshire today to select delegates to the Republican and Democratic conventions lay chiefly in the question whether this state would send to Cleveland a delegation solidly pledged to the candidacy of President Coolidge. Of the eight Republican candidates for the seven positions as delegates at large all are pledged to Coolidge except United States Senator George H. Moses.

Senator Moses, although he announced recently that if chosen a delegate he would favor the nomination of Coolidge, has refused to pledge himself.

It is expected that all the Democratic delegates will go to New York unpledged.

A coroner's jury held that Gregg met his death by being knocked down by a rifle in the hands of Tyler, without felonious intent.

The two men are said to have quarreled over the payment of a check. According to eyewitnesses, the men struggled together and Tyler grabbed a gun from the wall and swung at Gregg who fell over a chair with the result that his neck was broken.

At the hearing the state was represented by T. T. Hiner, state's attorney of Slope county, and Tyler was represented by C. P. Brownlee. A large crowd attended, the defendant being well known in this section.

Gasoline vs. Ice Cream Soda

In recent years, the price of gasoline has been discussed widely and at length. It has been the subject of legislative discussions and investigations. It has served in some instances as a political vehicle for aspiring candidates.

Because gasoline plays such an intimate part in all our lives the theme has been a popular one.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is America's leading refiner of gasoline and, therefore, is keenly interested in all phases of such discussions.

For the benefit of those who would have the subject illuminated, this Company will present, in the next few weeks, some side-lights on this question.

The average tank wagon price of gasoline in the ten Middle Western States served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is approximately equal to the price of an ice cream soda—which comparison we make merely as an example.

The ice cream soda satisfies a passing desire—it is pleasant—it is nourishing.

A gallon of gasoline renders a vital service—it will take your car a dozen or a score of miles on an errand of business, pleasure, or mercy.

It will bring the doctor to administer to the sick—it will propel a fire engine to save property—it will harvest grain—and in innumerable instances does gasoline render an essential service.

Gasoline is a vital cog in the wheel of industrial progress.

Gasoline is the cheapest commodity in the world—in proportion to the service it renders.

To make this service available to all; to enable every one of the thirty million people of the Middle West to get gasoline when and where he wants it, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has built up, and maintains, a system of distribution so comprehensive that its gasoline may be had every few blocks in the city and every few miles in the country.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) counts its system of distribution a major achievement, because its benefit accrues to the man who buys two gallons of gasoline as well as the man who needs a thousand gallons.

Rev. L. R. Johnson Talks To Rotary On Peace Plans

"Instruments of Peace" was the topic of an address delivered before the Bismarck Rotary club today at the regular weekly luncheon at the McKenzie hotel, by Rev. L. R. Johnson, pastor of the Baptist church. His plea was for a better world understanding as a preventive of war, urging the home, the schools and the church as the great agency to carry out this desired end. War he described as the greatest of all social sins.

Dr. Roy Towne, president at the meeting and started the ball rolling in a challenge to some of Chairman Henry's statements regarding canned goods.

Reports relative to the plans for the Rotary conference showed that preparations are going forward rapidly. Fred Copelin of the banquet committee reported that the banquet and dance would be given at the state capitol building in the house chambers and would be in charge of the Catholic Ladies. A kitchen will be improved in one of the offices and the capital management has offered to aid in staging this affair.

The two luncheons will be staged in the McKenzie hotel, the Rotary headquarters and the public meetings will take place at the city Auditorium. A most attractive program is in the making.

Plans Economy To Aid Railways

Vienna, March 12.—By strict measures of economy the Austrian Federal Railways hopes for an early reduction of the balancing of the budget. President Guenther, after three months' reconstruction work, says he expects to reduce the railway deficit 400,000,000 crowns during the current year, exclusive of the 10,000,000,000 traffic tax collected by the government.

BLIND INDIAN IS GUIDE TO TRADING POST

Missoula, Mont., March 12.—The site of a trading post which, 500 miles inland from the Pacific ocean, was founded in 1807, at virtually the same time that John Jacob Astor was establishing his post at the mouth of the Columbia river, has been located by Duncan McDonald, of Dixon, Mont., son of an early Hudson Bay Company factor. A blind Indian was McDonald's guide.

The heap of stones and wood ashes on the shore of Lake Pend Oreille in northern Idaho. They are all that are left of the log barricades and cabins which were built by David Thompson in 1807.

Thompson was an employee of the Hudson Bay Company in eastern Canada when Astor determined to send his expedition by boat around Cape Horn. Offered employment by Astor, Thompson decided instead to head an expedition of his own to cross the continent and establish a post at the mouth of the Columbia before Astor's could round the Horn.

But Thompson's expedition was forced by hostile Indians to camp for a winter north of what now is the city of Spokane, and the Thompson party arrived at the mouth of the Columbia to find Astor's men building their cabins. Thompson returned to the Rocky mountain region and built his fur-trading posts on Lake Pend Oreille in what has become northern Idaho, on Flathead Lake, in what is now western Montana, and near the present site of the city of Missoula.

The recent expedition which found the site of the Lake Pend Oreille post, designated by Thompson in his diaries as Kullyspell House, was led by McDonald, accompanied by the blind Indian from the Flathead reservation known as Old Aleck, who in his boyhood, had seen standing the old stone chimney of Kullyspell House.

By the location of a "bear's paw" rock, which Old Aleck remembered, the party found nearby two heaps of stone of uniform size, beneath which was disintegrated gray dust, the remains of the hearth fires of the fur trader of 117 years ago and Turkish merchants have begun to realize the evil effects of the present policy of the Angora government on the trade of the country. The journal continues:

"It is the unanimous opinion of shipping and mercantile circles in Turkey that, if no amelioration takes place in the present situation brought about by a constant stream of vexatious and often senseless restrictions and regulations, the importance of Constantinople as a transit and coaling center will be ruined."

"Owing to the diminution of trade with Russia and Anatolia, the commercial importance of Constantinople was necessarily adversely affected in any event; but the Turkish government is now faced with the mortifying spectacle of the remaining trade of the port being diverted to Greece and Port Said, where every encouragement is given to coaling and transit trade."

Radio In Canada
Relieves Isolation

Winnipeg, Man., Mar. 11.—Radios carrying the latest news of the world into remote farm homes and hooking up pioneer prairie settlements with large cities, have become an important factor in colonization in the Dominion, according to a report issued by the department of marine.

The radio has robbed prairie farm life of its isolation, reads the report. "Loneliness is no longer to be dreaded. Settlers and their families listen-in on current news of the day, enjoy high class concerts and entertainments, receive information from agricultural colleges on new farming methods and courses in household management, and get the latest market quotations on agricultural products."

Of 100,000 receiving sets estimated to be in operation throughout the Dominion, more than 60 per cent are owned on farms. This is especially true in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, the provincial government aids broadcasting through its publicly-owned telephone system.

Broadcasting stations in Canada number 8, the report shows, and are located in the principal cities from coast to coast. Investment in receiving sets amounts to more than $2,000,000.

Decline of Turkish Trade Due To Rules

London, March 12.—What is said to be the declining importance of Constantinople as the center of the transit trade for the Near East has been engaging the serious attention of all sections of the commercial community in that port, says The Frank Rikert, Who Left Illinois for California in Covered Wagon in 1864. Wouldn't Take $100 For Bottle of Tanlac.

Frank Rikert, well-known resident of North Sacramento, Cal., who came to the state from Illinois in a covered wagon in 1864, along with other hardy pioneers, recently exhibited a bottle of Tanlac, which he had just purchased, to a friend at his home and remarked: "If I thought this was the last bottle of Tanlac I would ever be able to buy, I wouldn't take one hundred dollars for it," thus proving the high valuation he places on the famous treatment.

"I believe Tanlac really saved my life when I took it after the flu about a year ago," continued Mr. Rikert. "For the attack left me 20 pounds off in weight, and unable to turn over in my bed without assistance. I tell you, I thought my time had surely come."

"But, thanks to my wife's insistence, I kept on taking Tanlac till I was able to do all my work again, had back all my lost weight, and I've been feeling years younger ever since. I'm always telling my friends about Tanlac, and can't say too much for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Jesuit Priests Brought Cherries To America

Chicago, March 12.—The romance of the cherry pie from its immigration from France to a dining table in this country, has just been traced by the research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

"Historically and geographically the cherry has left its mark on the face of America," says a bulletin just out. "Jesuit priests brought pits from the cherry growing districts of France and grew seedlings where they established headquarters along the Great Lakes and the Mississippi river during their early explorations in the sixteenth century."

"The towns and cities named Salem in Ohio, Indiana, Iowa and Oregon mark the trail of the propagation of the great cherry business that has been built up in Oregon trail not on a wagon of the Oregon trail but on a carryed the plow but seeding cherry trees that somehow withstood the months of heat and jolting until transplanted at the end of the historic journey."

"The cherry pie that daily wedges its juicy path into the luncheons of millions of city workers is the culmination of pioneering, intensive cultivation, battling bugs with sprays, picking by colorful bands of 'flavor gypsies,' and finally freezing of the fruit in crates in cold storage until the pie maker calls for the filler for his daily baking. Until the cold storage houses began the freezing process for cherries, all cherry pies, except at harvest time, came from the east."

"Door County, Wisconsin, is the greatest producer of pie cherries, though Michigan also supplies a big share. In these sections the growers have put their orchards on a business basis, tractor-drawn tillage and spraying equipment being employed to give a No. 1 bright, red, juicy cherry that will be entirely free from the ravages of insect enemies."

DAUGHERTY'S FRIEND WILL BE DISCUSSED

Part Played by Dead Man in Dept. of Justice Affairs To Be Probed

Washington, Mar. 12.—The part played in Department of Justice affairs by Jeff Smith, friend of Attorney-General Daugherty, who committed suicide a year ago, will be inquired into in detail in the senate Daugherty investigation.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, preparing the case for the committee announced that all telegrams prepared and sent to and received at Columbus, O., after the election of President Harding had been subpoenaed.

The senator said that the reported influence of oil interests in the Mexican revolution planned for inquiry at the opening session probably would give way to some other undisclosed subject.

In the search for the connection of Jeff Smith the telegram companies here and at Washington Court House, Ohio, were directed to submit all incoming and outgoing messages sent to or received by Jeff Smith since November 1, 1920 and up to the time of his death.

CALL WITNESS

Washington, Mar. 12.—The senate committee investigating the administration of Attorney-General Daugherty will open its hearings late this afternoon and will hear as the first witness Mrs. Roxie Stinson of Columbus, Ohio, divorced wife of the late Jesse W. Smith, Smith, a close friend and political lieutenant of Mr. Daugherty, lived with him in Washington and committed a suicide a year ago in their apartment here.

Mrs. Stinson is expected to testify as to the source of Smith's income, both before and after the inauguration of President Harding.

Coolidge Policies Are Assailed by Senator Johnson

For the taxpayers who could best afford to pay their taxes. The plan, he asserted, was produced to cause a break of faith of the Republican party which had promised the soldier a bonus.

Opens Address

In opening his address Senator Johnson said he made his present fight in good humor and without malice. He declared that the present conflict was one which Abraham Lincoln had pointed out with prophetic vision, and which Theodore Roosevelt saw and fought in white heat. He asserted that a fight against an alliance of crooked big business and crooked politicians, of which the tea-pot dome affair was a culmination, and he asserted that if the Republican party did not clean house for the party in 1924.

He assailed the Republican National committee's action in December in increasing the southern representation in the national convention, asserting that the committee acted "under orders from the White House."

As examples of the alleged unfairness of the committee he pointed out that Nebraska with 247,000 votes for Harding in 1920 was given 11 delegates, South Dakota with 110,000 votes was given 13 and North Dakota with 160,000 votes 13 delegates, a total of 45 delegates for 518,000 votes. South Carolina, he said, with 2,600 votes for Harding had 12 delegates, Mississippi with 14,000 votes had 12 delegates and Georgia with 43,000 votes had 18 delegates in the Cleveland convention, or 41 delegates for 57,000 votes.

"The reason for this," he asserted, "is to keep the people from expressing their preference for the presidential nomination, as Southern states where he said 'crooked officeholders' in the Republican party were given as much power as Northern states where presidential primaries are held."

For Soldiers Bonus

He said he was for adjusted compensation for veterans of World War because the Republican party was pledged to it, because the principle of adjusted compensation had been recognized in settling with war contractors whose contracts were terminated by the sudden ending of the war and in voting bonuses to civilian employees, and as "a matter of common justice."

In predicting the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill Senator Johnson said that he and others in Congress believed it was the only measure that proposed to accomplish something for the farmers, because it sought to place the farmer on a basis where he would receive for his produce pay on the same basis as the price of things he must buy.

No Apologies To Make

"I have no apologies to make for the role in which I appear here tonight," said Senator Johnson. As an American I am exercising an American's prerogative. I am exercising this prerogative not only because it is my pleasure to do so, but in response to requests from practically every State in this Union. I am here tonight under the auspices of men and women whose citizenship is a real and precious thing to them, with whom service to their country is a duty, and who, while Republicans, have ever maintained their political and personal independence. I am proud under their auspices to speak in this city and to the citizens of this State.

"Our appeal is made primarily to Republicans but it concerns all who

AND DOWN CAME THE MOUNTAIN!

Even a mountain is not immune from destruction in the 20th century progress. The Southern Pacific blew one up at Lakeside, Utah, to make way for track extensions. More than 300,000 pounds of high explosives were touched off by electricity generated in a car some distance from the scene. Residents of the town watched the destruction from a point a mile away.

believe in popular government, and who foresee that a successful assault upon popular government may shake the very foundation of our institutions.

"I begin this contest wholly philosophically and in entire good humor, but during its progress I shall not hesitate, as in every other political contest in which I have engaged, to express myself concerning policies with such force and emphasis as I can command, and without regard to whether my words shall be pleasing or soothing to those in positions of power. I advocate to myself the right to rule the rest of us."

During discussion of the Mellon plan, Senator Johnson made an attack on Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. He said Ochs, a Democrat, presided at a dinner at which President Coolidge spoke and "stood up and waved his napkin for the Mellon plan."

He said it was reported the Times made $4,000,000 last year and under the Mellon plan the Times would save $1,000,000.

For Tax Reduction

"There can be no political issue on reduction of taxes. Everybody would reduce the expenditures of government to the least possible sum, and collect from people only that sum. No one believes in high taxation. Everybody wishes low taxation and everybody believes in reduction of taxes. To inject as a false political issue into a campaign tax reduction is to cut off the political waters so that nothing else may be seen. Let me ask the newspapers crying so loudly for the Mellon plan, the organizations that have been stimulated into activity for it without understanding it, and all the propagandists of big business if you had to choose between reductions on small incomes and reductions on large incomes how would you stand? I venture the assertion that if the reduction of taxation of small incomes only were involved there would be no propaganda, no pretended political issue about tax reduction."

"Our government overtaxed its people in the last year and we find a surplus on hand of $250,000,000.00. It is perfectly obvious that no government has the right to overtax its people, and it is equally plain that with a surplus of $250,000,000.00, we should meet our just obligations, and we should reduce taxation just as much as it can be reduced. We must correct the condition of affairs by which we collected more than we should have collected in taxation, and we can only correct this condition of affairs by reduction of taxation."

Wrote Secretary

"Just after adjournment of congress last year, in March 1, I believed the chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, wrote the secretary of the treasury, upon the subject of the reduction of taxes. The secretary of the treasury delayed his answer and finally replied in November, seven months thereafter, just before the meeting of congress, and since then, we have had before us, in one form or another, suggestions for the reduction of our taxation. At the commencement of any discussion of this plan let me recall to you that the estimate of the secretary of the treasury was that we would have a deficit of many more hundreds of millions than our present surplus amounts to, and upon this statement of a deficit, the action of the late President Harding was predicted. Instead of a deficit, we now have a surplus of $250,000,000.00. While, of course, the treasury department should not be subjected to criticism in any degree for an error in its estimate, our experience with its former estimates, would lead us to believe that the present estimates are not to be trusted. We have never in this country had anything like the propaganda we now have in behalf of the so-called 'Mellon Plan.' It was propaganda most carefully prepared without the slightest knowledge of detail of the plan forthwith by adopted. We have encountered in this matter the very realities in the early days of the propaganda for the League of Nations. I recall how very good people would rush at us right after the promulgation of the League, and heuristically ask if we did not wish to prevent war, and when timely we responded affirmatively, they would demand that we favor the League of Nations. Recently interested parties have rushed at us concerning the tax proposition, demanding to know if we did not wish to reduce taxes, and when in common with all others we said that was our desire, they insisted forthwith the Mellon plan must be adopted. If we asked them what the Mellon plan was, none of them knew. But there was tracts with the government which ceased with the termination of the war was adjusted.

"Where did you get the story?" asked the judge. "I won't tell," said Ralph F. King, assistant city editor of the Waukegan (Ill.) Daily Sun. "Thirty days in jail, then," remarked the court. King, pictured above, moved his typewriter into his cell and kept at work. He keeps in touch with the outside world over a radio. His boss doubled his salary during imprisonment. King obtained his story from a confidential source and is keeping his pledge of secrecy despite courts and jails.

FARGO MAN IS BANKERS' HEAD

Fargo, March 12.—C. A. Williams of the Barker Bakery company of Fargo was elected president of the North Dakota Association of the Baking Industry at the annual business meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon at the Commercial club. Other officers elected were: Vice president, H. K. Geist of Grand Forks; secretary-treasurer, Roy Schuyler of Grand Forks. Members elected on the board of directors were: Henry Clapp of Fairmont, John Ronsland of Valley City, C. A. Troyer of Rugby and R. L. Hawes of Wapillon.

It was decided at the meeting to hold the next annual convention of the association at Fargo, the date to be decided upon by the board of directors.

DENY LINE WILL BE BUILT

Fargo, N. D., March 12.—There is no truth in the report of the proposed construction of a branch line of the Milwaukee railroad from Aberdeen, S. D. through Fargo to Winnipeg.

This was the statement recently of C. G. Goetz, of Chicago, assistant to Pres. H. E. Byram of that line. The statement was in reply to a query sent to Mr. Byram by The Forum, asking the president of the Milwaukee to set at rest persistent rumors to the effect that the Milwaukee would build such a line.

Mr. Goetz replied on behalf of Mr. Byram who is absent on a trip in the Orient.

A Milnor, N. D. paper recently carried a story to the effect that a resident of Milnor had received a telegram from an official of the Milwaukee saying that such a line would be built.

Race Horse Ready For Summer's Work

Newport, Ky., March 12.—In Memoriam, chief color-bearer of the racing stable of Carl Wiedemann, Newport owner, is being prepared for what is expected to be his greatest season. He will be pitted against the best thoroughbreds in this country, and will be a contestant for speed honors with Epitaph, when the French champion comes to Latonia to meet horses of his age.

This gallant son of McGee, who defeated Zev at Latonia and ran the cancan star to a nose finish at Churchill Downs, probably will mark his first start of the 1924 season in the Clark Handicap, opening day feature at Churchill Downs, according to Bob Gilmore, trainer of the Wiedemann horses. If the colt takes to the early training and rounds into form, he may be sent to Maryland to start in the big stakes at Havre de Grace and Pimlico. The trainer said also that in Memoriam would not sidestep any race this season, and that he hoped a meeting could be arranged between the Wiedemann horse and Grey Lag before the season ends.

Americans Aid French War Orphans

Paris, March 12.—Americans have aided 286,000 French war orphans during the nine years work of the Fraternite Franco-Americaine, it was reported at the annual meeting of the society recently. Reference was made to the splendid work started in France in 1916 by two English women, Miss Schofield and Miss Fall, resulting in nearly 200 committees being formed in the United States.

The American organization of "Fatherless Children of France" was disbanded five years ago and its work was taken over by the Fraternite Franco-Americaine. Since then it has received from the United States 7,500,000 francs and an equal sum direct from the American god-parents of their proteges.

LADD HEADS OIL PROBERS

North Dakotan Succeeds Senator Lenroot

Washington, March 12.—Retirement of Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, as chairman and member of the oil committee, overshadowed other development in the oil inquiry.

He will be succeeded as chairman by Senator Ladd of North Dakota, a Republican identified with the LaFollette group, who has been active in charge of the committee since the departure of Senator Lenroot for Southern Pines, N. C., a week ago to recuperate from a threatened attack of nervous exhaustion.

This statement was authorized by Senator Lenroot.

"Since coming to Southern Pines, I have not recuperated as I had hoped and it will not be possible for me to continue my work on the committee on public lands and surveys."

Told of Move

"I realized some time ago that I was nearing the point of exhaustion and stated upon the floor of the senate that if the oil investigation continued indefinitely I would feel compelled to resign from the committee."

"I have given nearly four months of service in this investigation trying as best I could to keep up with such other work as could not be neglected, with the result that I cannot in my present state of health continue any longer."

"I hope to be able to return to Washington next week, but shall not attempt anything more than routine work of my office until my health is restored."

Skaters Rescued From Ice Floe

Copenhagen, March 12.—The remarkable rescue of 200 persons who, while skating, were carried out to sea on a huge ice floe, is reported from a small town near here. While the skaters were enjoying the sport the floe loosened a large mass of ice from the fast pack. The foe began to drift rapidly seaward with the helpless skaters.

While all harbor authorities were notified a steamship was dispatched and a number of fishing craft put out to sea. The steamship caught up with the floe several miles from shore and took off 100 of the skaters, while the others were rescued by fishing craft.

Frank Rikert, well-known resident of North Sacramento, Cal., who came to the state from Illinois in a covered wagon in 1861, along with other hardy pioneers, recently exhibited a bottle of Tanlac, which he had just purchased, to a crowd of his friends and remarked: "If I thought this was the last bottle of Tanlac I would ever be able to buy, I wouldn't take any hundred dollars for it. I'm proud of the fact that I have been able to keep my health and vitality through the use of this famous medicine."

Jesuit Priests Brought Cherries To America

Chicago, March 12.—The romance of the cherry pie from its migration from France to a dining table in this country, has just been traced to the Jesuit missionaries of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

The town and country of Oregon were the scene of the propagation of the great cherry industry that has been built up in Oregon. The covered wagon of the Oregon trail not only carried the pioneers but also carried the cherry trees that were planted along the banks of the Willamette river during their early explorations in the western country.

"The cherry pie that daily wedges its juicy path into the palates of millions of city workers is the culmination of pioneer, intensive cultivation, battling bugs with sprays, picking by colored bands of trained pickers, and finally freezing of the fruit in crates and storage until the pie maker calls for the fruit for his daily baking. But the cold storage houses began the freezing process for cherries, as cherry pies, except at harvest time, came from the can."

"Door County, Wisconsin, is the greatest producer of pie cherries, though Michigan also supplies a big share. In these sections the growers have put their orchards on a big new basis, tractor-driven sprayers and spraying equipment being employed to give a new, bright red, juicy cherry that will be a real treat for the palate of most eaters."

European Commercial, and Turkish merchants have begun to realize the evil effects of the present policy of the Angora government on the trade of the country. The journal continues:

"It is the unanimous opinion of shipping and mercantile circles in Turkey that, if no amelioration takes place in the present situation brought about by a constant stream of vexatious and often senseless restrictions and regulations, the importance of Constantinople as a transit and coaling center will be ruined."

"Owing to the diminution of trade with Russia and Anatolia, the commercial importance of Constantinople was necessarily adversely affected in any event; but the Turkish government is now faced with the mortifying spectacle of the remaining trade of the port being diverted to Greece and Port Said, where every encouragement is given to coaling and transit trade."

Radio In Canada Relieves Isolation

Winnipeg, Man., Mar. 11.—Radio carrying the latest news of the world into remote farm homes and hooking up pioneer prairie settlements with large cities, have become an important factor in colonization in the Dominion, according to a report issued by the department of marine. "The radio has robbed prairie farm life of its isolation," reads the report. "Loneliness is no longer to be dreaded. Settlers and their families listen-in on current news of the day, enjoy high class concerts and entertainment, receive information from agricultural colleges on new farming methods and courses in household management, and get the latest market quotations on agricultural products."

"Of 100,000 receiving sets estimated to be in operation throughout the Dominion, more than 60 percent are owned on farms. This is especially true in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, the prairie provinces most and broadcasting through its publicly-owned telephone system."

Broadcasting stations in Canada number 8, the report shows, and are located in the principal cities from coast to coast. Investment in receiving sets amounts to more than $2,000,000.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Since the war interest naturally has lapsed somewhat in the various activities of the Red Cross. But it is also a peace time organization responding to the call of the needy wherever or whenever it is uttered. Its responsibility is world wide, reaching out into the remotest parts of the globe when pestilence afflicts or the grim spectre of famine stalks the land.

Still on the other hand, the Red Cross more constantly and in a much less spectacular manner touches the routine of village, county and city life. Here in Burleigh county, it is a great clearing house for practically every phase of welfare work. There can be no beating of the tom toms nor brass band methods in advertising or popularizing this work which of necessity must be done without ostentation, free from publicity and in a guarded privacy of records.

Since the war the Burleigh County Red Cross chapter has been doing necessary and constructive work in the county and in Bismarck. In cooperation with civic and fraternal organizations, the chapter has organized a social registration bureau which functions along the lines of an associated charities preventing waste through ill advised and unworthy charity and duplication of effort by directing all relief measures along business-like lines.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Cashel, the general social welfare work has been most efficiently and most economically handled. Aid to this work is given by Burleigh county as Miss Cashel acts as juvenile officer and works with the district judge in his capacity as juvenile judge and with the county board of commissioners in the matter of mother's pensions and general relief work. A great saving to the taxpayers has been made in her effective work in weeding out chronic cases and preventing the foisting of paupers upon Burleigh whose residences are elsewhere.

There is contact with the city commission as the social welfare work for Bismarck is conducted through the Red Cross office and assistance has been given city officials in many relief cases which they have no time nor the opportunity to investigate. There is the best kind of cooperation between the city commissioners, the district judge and the county commissioners in this Red Cross work and all branches of government have shown a deep realization of the responsibility entailed.

Another phase of the work which in the past has overshadowed all other departments is the assistance given ex-service men, widows of late service men or their families. Daily there are calls to straighten out some phase of the red tape involved in getting pension claims through and in giving immediate relief until the slow machinery of the veterans' bureau is put into motion.

There is much to do in the future to keep these important agencies of community effort functioning properly. This work is only semi-official, however. The success of the work rests upon the interest shown and the responsibility shouldered by each member of the Red Cross in Burleigh county. An annual meeting has been called, March 20, in the Association of Commerce rooms. In the past only a perfunctory interest has been shown in these meetings, although the Red Cross chapter has always been well supported in Burleigh county when the call for financial aid was issued. What makes the Red Cross a living, vital thing is for its members to attend the annual meeting with a spirited offering of suggestions or criticisms so that the officials charged with the direction of the affairs of the chapter can feel this necessary and most essential contact with the membership body.

Ever since the Red Cross became active in Burleigh county a few have shouldered the responsibility of management. They have expected no honor nor glory out of the task and are satisfied with the results gained through a period dating back to those eventful days in August, 1914 when the Red Cross became the hope of millions for the mitigation of the terrors and rigors of war.

Local problems are still vital and affect the community life in a thousand ways. Show your appreciation of what the chapter has done by attending the annual meeting. Members who reside outside of Bismarck are urgently invited to attend and hear the various reports for the activities of the Red Cross embrace every portion of the county.

Let there be a representative gathering of the several hundred members enrolled in Burleigh county.

ARTIFICIAL GASOLINE

Artificial gasoline is perfected by the French chemist, Damiens, he claims. The process mixes sulphuric acid, copper oxide and ethylene, then heating and distilling.

The big oil companies are not worried, for Damiens adds that the price of making his artificial gasoline is prohibitively high. That's usually the case with substitutes for basic commodities. Artificial rubber has been perfected, but can't be made as cheaply as the real thing. Damiens hopes to get his production cost down to 15 cents a gallon.

RUSSIA

Russia claims that its railroads in the last two years have hauled 29 tons of freight for every 100 tons moved before the war. The figure is expected to move up to 36 this year. Passenger traffic is about half of normal.

This information is important, because Russia's economic collapse has been most acute in her transportation. The Red Bear is getting around better, though still limping badly.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that the readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

HARMONICAS IN CONGRESS

While real political harmony has never been realized in governmental circles until the millennium, a certain form of harmony is rapidly making itself felt among the nation's leaders. The nationwide harmonica movement aroused largely by the widespread harmonica party furthered by M. H. H. has resulted in the "taking up" of the harmonica by official Washington.

A harmonica octet made up of members of the house of representatives has been formed. This can now be supplemented by a different senator and a member of the president's cabinet who have become enthusiastic harmonica fans.

About a month ago three harmonicas were sent to James J. Davis, secretary of labor, for the use of the secretary's three children. Secretary Davis, who has been interested in music all his life and who has been actively interested in the promotion of good music in his official capacity, soon found himself a devotee of the instrument, playing it whenever he found the opportunity.

Senator Duncan P. Fletcher of Florida indorses harmonica playing as an aid to building up the nation's interest in music. He said he was glad to see that the harmonica was becoming a real musical instrument and was no longer exclusive a toy of childhood days.

Seldon P. Spencer, senator from Missouri, feels just as enthusiastic about the harmonica as his colleague from Florida—Musical Trade Review.

GREATNESS

One of the fashions of the day is to select the four greatest men of the present century. Prominent thinkers and performers have been quoted as to their lists, and actually most of them agree. Each one is governed by his own political tenets, policies, prejudices and ideas. Consequently no complete neutral selection can be made.

Greatness is largely relative, not only to others but to the times. Circumstances alter personalities and create greatness. Great principles tend to create great men. In the past, greatness was based upon war and government services. The biggest destroyer was the greatest man. The leaders who brought the most misery and hardships and blood upon the world was considered the greatest. Some still labor under that hallucination as is shown by the lists.

But in the present age, at least as far as the United States is concerned, the most influential forces more people and talents than personally is found in other fields than that of politics. It is industry, business, science, invention and education, even amusement, which reaches into all the homes and governs our thoughts and actions, makes or unmake morality.

One may find the greatest prize fighter by letting him lick all contenders, or the fastest horse, or the champion golf player. But we cannot so easily determine who is the greatest man. To say that any one person has contributed the most to modern civilization is but to express the personal opinion of the speaker.—Lansing State Journal.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY

Well, it's all over, old man. Paula has been here and gone. She has come into my house and held her own child in her arms while I walked up and down on the other side of the street and cursed myself as I have never cursed in all my life anyone or anything.

One moment I was afraid I would see Paula come out the door walking away with little John, the next moment I almost wished she would, anything so she would get out of my house.

Pretty soon, however, she came out and got into her car, with an inscrutable look on her face. I could not tell whether she was going to make trouble or let things lie.

It seemed hours before I could get up courage enough to go into the house, but when I did Leslie met me quite as cordial as ever, telling me Paula had been there and that she would like to have had me come home, before she left.

For a moment my knees trembled; then I sat down on a chair and managed to find the voice to ask what Paula said.

"She talked mostly about little Jack," she answered frankly, "and about his broken engagement, and how she was able to let her hold her child in her arms."

"Her child, Leslie!" I was stupid enough to inquire.

"Oh, of course, I know we have adopted it, but it is preposterous to try to make me think the child does not belong to Paula Perier."

"She did not say so?" I asked tremblingly.

"Certainly she did not. Women don't do those things."

"I thought, they did. I always thought women told more of their affairs than men."

"Certainly they do not. Why yesterday afternoon, Jack, at the matchless Dick Summers told me all about his broken engagement, and if I would have let him he would have told me how much he loved Paula Perier."

"Then he's in love with Paula Perier?"

"Yes, I think he's more in love with her than Sydney Carton."

"Good heavens, Leslie, Sydney Carton was never in love with Paula."

"That's right; keep it up, Jack. You're as loyal to your friend as you ever were."

"You don't seem to dislike him either, Leslie. Jack."

"Neither do I dislike Miss Perier, Jack, and although I liked her very much on short acquaintance I tell you honestly I think I like Sydney Carton more. I never could conceive of him having a grand passion for Paula Perier."

"Let's not talk about either of them any more, Leslie. I hope this whole Perier storm is blowing over."

"Was there a storm? I didn't know it." And then Syd, that blessed woman linked her arm in mine and said:

"Come on, Jack; let's go into the nursery and see our boy."

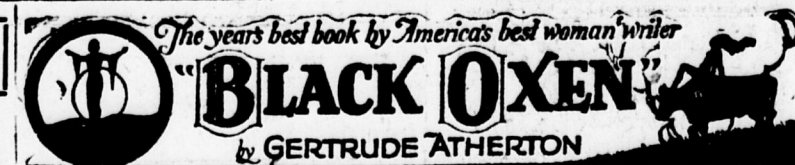

I felt my eyes grow moist and my conscience kept saying: "You don't deserve it, you don't deserve it."

Goodbye, old man, until the next time.

JACK.

Clavering, expecting to find her dissolved in tears, and, violent as his sympathy for her was, rejoicing that this was the part to comfort her, followed her precipitately. But she was standing by the table with scornful lips and eyes.

"I thought you'd be all broken up," he stammered. Tears of disappointment almost rose to his own eyes.

She laughed shortly. "If I do you suppose I would pay them so great a compliment? But what a ridiculous exhibition they made of themselves. It seems incredible."

"But surely you must have been hurt—and stabbed. It isn't possible that you weren't!"

"Oh, yes, I was stabbed, but I think I was even more amused. I felt sorry for the poor things. I certainly never saw a more comically naked exhibition of human nature. It was worth coming to America for. Nor do I blame them. No doubt I should have felt the same at their age—although I hope should even then have expressed myself in a fashion a trifle more subtle, a little less primeval."

"Good God! Are you always so—so rational?"

She smiled slightly. "If I deliberately unlearned the more valuable things a long life taught me here would be no object beyondanity in being young again. And don't you suppose I was grateful o'clock for one of their rare tramps. She wore high-laced boots of soft leather, a short skirt and jersey and a soft hat; and if she had met any of her guests of that memorable dinner they would have looked profoundly thoughtful, and renounced whatever hope of having seared her to the bone they may have cherished. She strode through the woods above the Palsades beside Clavering with high head and sparkling eyes, her arms swinging like a schoolboy's. It was evident even to him, who had waited for her so anxiously, that she had rubbed a sponge over her memory. She was in high spirits and looked as if she had not a care in the world.

There was a soft mist of green on the trees of the wood, a few birds had already migrated northward, their own world-old wireless having warned them of the early awakening of spring after an unusually mild winter, and they were singing their matins.

She did not seem inclined for more than desultory conversation, but she had the gift of making silence eloquent, and Clavering, his fears banished, although by no means at peace, gave himself up to the pleasure of the moment. They walked briskly for several miles, then had their breakfast at a roadside inn; and both were so hungry that they talked even less than before. But there was little need for words between them; the current was too strong, and both were merely vital beings to whom companionship and healthy exercise were the highest good at the moment.

"Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?" she asked softly.

Tonight for my years—those years to crowded with training and experience? Who better prepared than I to hold my own against a lot of raw Americans?"

"That is the first human thing you've said. Raw? Wasn't it Darwin who said that we are all such a short distance, in time, removed from our common savage ancestors that it is a wonder we don't revert oftener than we do? They were plain unadorned females. I believe men are more civilized than women."

"Oh, no, but they revert on a grand scale. I cannot say I was totally unprepared—not for such a concerted and shocking exhibition of course; but I've felt their antagonism and expected to be dropped gradually from their set. Of course, this is the end, definitely. However, she shrugged her shoulders again. "I have enjoyed the New York which seems to have changed in so many ways since my day, and all dramas should have a proper 'curtain,' should they not? Is your own play finished by the way?"

"Oh! He turned his back on her and leaned on the mantelpiece, dropping his head on his arms. He had never felt as far away from her when he had been unable to learn even her name. What need had she of him or any man?"

Mary gave him a quick comprehending glance, and came out of her isolation. She went over to him, turned him around, and took his face between her hands.

"Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?" she asked softly. "It seemed to me that nothing else mattered. We two are in a world of our own. How could they seem more to me than the buzzing of so many brainless insects? Forget it, and I shall."

But although he was consoled, he wondered, as he left the house, if he would ever feel more depressed in his life. She might love him, but what else could he ever be to her but a lover? His manhood rebelled. If she had only flung herself weeping into his arms. If for once he could have felt himself stronger than she—indispensable.

The play was almost finished, and its chances for swift production were far greater than is usually the case with the new adventurer into the most inhospitable of all fields of artistic endeavor. Adrian Hogarth, who had a play on Broadway every year, and Edwin Scores, who had recently exchanged the esteem of the few for the enthusiasm of The Public, had read it by act and given him the practical advice he needed. A dramatic critic always believes he knows more about plays than any one else until he attempts to write one, but Clavering, at least, if not unduly modest, was too anxious to succeed not to welcome all the help he could get.

They even "sat in" with him during the final revision, and the dispute was hot over the last act, an act so daring in technique they were loath to believe that even Clavering, whose striking gifts they had always recognized, could "put it over." Moreover, there was only one woman on the American stage who could act it and that was Margaret Anglin. If it didn't appeal to her he might as well look for it. The younger actresses, clever as some of them were, had no far given no evidence of sustained emotional power.

The dinner was on Monday. On Wednesday morning she met him at the Fort Lee Ferry at seven

TO PUBLISH WILSON PAPERS

Washington, Mar. 12.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has decided to avail herself of her legal rights to check publications of selections from her late husband's letters and manuscripts until she can determine in what manner the war president's papers will be given to the public as a whole and in an authorized way.

It is Mrs. Wilson's intention, as executrix of the war-president's estate, either to have his letters and manuscripts assembled and published by some one who will act on her authority; or to gather them into a collection of Wilsoniana and make it available to the public probably by depositing the papers in some national institute such as the Library of Congress.

Since Mr. Wilson's death some of his letters have been published; some others have been offered for sale, and still others were in process of publication and widely advertised, until Mrs. Wilson determined upon her action. One publisher whose output runs into millions of copies, made over a whole number of his publication after it was on the press, and is now taking steps to recall copies which already were on their way to circulation.

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 12. A nationwide campaign to "get out the vote" for the 1924 election will be launched at the fifth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters to be held here April 24 to 29.

The test of the league's four years of work is the 1924 election, according to the president, Mrs. Maud Wood Park.

According to figures, fewer than half the eligible voters—only 49 per cent—voted in the presidential election in 1920.

Ballot Negligence
In 1922, 33 states elected governors and only a little more than one-third of the possible voters cast their ballots, and in primary and local elections the percentage is much lower.

"Every woman in the league is called upon to remedy this condition," Mrs. Parks states. "If we are to be a democracy it is time we were about it. Let us, as our goal for 1924, have 75 per cent of the vote that could have been cast in 1920, and enlist the help of public-spirited men and women from one end of the country to the other in carrying out the plan."

The governors of five eastern states, New York, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, have been invited to attend the governors' mass meeting on April 26.

Distinguished Women

The 12 most distinguished women selected last May, after a year's canvass and study will be guests of honor at a dinner to be given on April 24.

This list includes Jane Addams, Cecelia Beaux, Annie Jump Cannon, Carrie Chapman Catt, Anna Botzford Comstock, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Louise Homer, Julia Lathrop, Florence Rena Sabin, M. Carey Thomas, Martha Van Rensselaer and Edith Wharton.

Representatives from every state in the Union are to be present as well as speakers of national and international fame.

The program committee, of which Miss Elizabeth Hauser of Ohio is chairman, includes also Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, national vice president; Miss Gertrude Ely of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Casper Whitney of New York City; Mrs. B. J. Burns and Mrs. Louise Michael of Buffalo.

Why Not You?

When millions now attain so much by fighting film on teeth

Careful people, the world over, use a new teeth cleaning method. You see the results in whiter teeth in every circle now.

It means new beauty, new safety, new delights. It means to children new protection against troubles you have suffered.

Let this free test prove the benefits it brings.

Film mars beauty

That cloud on teeth is film. At first the film is viscous. You can feel it now. Soon it discolors, forming those dingy coats.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so the coats may long remain.

That hold food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Such troubles are almost universal with people who don't fight film.

Easy to combat

Now that film is easy to combat. Dental science has found two methods. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

TO PUBLISH WILSON PAPERS

Washington, Mar. 12.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has decided to avail herself of her legal rights to check publications of selections from her late husband's letters and manuscripts until she can determine in what manner the war president's papers will be given to the public as a whole and in an authorized way.

It is Mrs. Wilson's intention, as executrix of the war-president's estate, either to have his letters and manuscripts assembled and published by some one who will act on her authority; or to gather them into a collection of Wilsonia and make it available to the public probably by depositing the papers in some national institute such as the Library of Congress.

Since Mrs. Wilson's death some of his letters have been published; some others have been offered for sale, and still others were in process of publication and widely advertised, until Mrs. Wilson determined upon her action. One publisher whose output runs into millions of copies made over a whole number of his publication after it was on the press, and is now taking steps to recall copies which already were on their way to circulation.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends who so kindly assisted us in our recent bereavement in the death of our beloved son and brother and also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

NEA Service Writer

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 12.—A nationwide campaign to "get out the vote" for the 1924 election will be launched at the fifth annual convention of the National League of Women Voters to be held here April 24 to 29.

The test of the league's four years of work is the 1924 election, according to the president, Mrs. Maud Wood Park.

According to figures, fewer than half the eligible voters—only 49 per cent—voted in the presidential election in 1920.

Ballot Negligence

In 1922, 33 states elected governors and only a little more than one-third of the possible voters cast their ballots, and in primary and local elections the percentage is much lower.

"Every woman in the league is called upon to remedy this condition," Mrs. Parks states. "If we are to be a democracy it is time we were about it! Let us, as our goal for 1924 75 per cent of the vote that could have been cast in 1920, and enlist the help of public-spirited men and women from one end of the country to the other in carrying out the plan."

The governors of five eastern states, New York, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, have been invited to attend the governors' mass meeting on April 26.

Distinguished Women

The 12 most distinguished women selected last May, after a year's canvass and study will be guests of honor at a dinner to be given on April 28.

This list includes Jane Addams, Cecelia Beaux, Annie Jump Cannon, Carrie Chapman Catt, Anna Botsford Comstock, Minnie Maddern Fiske, Louise Homer, Julia Lathrop, Florence Rena Sablin, M. Carey Thomas, Martha Van Rensselaer and Edith Wharton.

Representatives from every state in the Union are to be present as well as speakers of national and international fame.

The program committee, of which Miss Elizabeth Hauser of Ohio is chairman, includes also Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, national vice president; Miss Gertrude Ely of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mrs. Casper Whitney of New York City, Mrs. B. J. Burns and Miss Louise Michael of Buffalo.

Why Not You?

When millions now attain so much by fighting film on teeth

Careful people, the world over, use a new teeth cleaning method. You see the results in whiter teeth in every circle now.

It means new beauty, new safety, new delights. It means to children new protection against troubles you have suffered.

Let this free test prove the benefits it brings.

Film mars beauty

That cloud on teeth is film. At first the film is viscous. You can feel it now. Soon it discolors, forming those dingy coats.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats it, so the coats may long remain.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Such troubles are almost universal with people who don't fight film.

Easy to combat

Now that film is easy to combat. Dental science has found two methods. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved effective in many tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists the world over have long advised its use. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ this modern method.

Results you see and feel

Pepsodent brings conspicuous results. It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to better neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, to better digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined effects bring a new conception of clean teeth.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

The results of the ten-day test will delight and convince you. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES
Since the war interest naturally has lapsed somewhat in the various activities of the Red Cross. But it is also a peace time organization responding to the call of the needy wherever or whenever it is uttered. Its responsibility is world wide, reaching out into the remotest parts of the globe when pestilence afflicts or the grim spectre of famine stalks the land.

Still on the other hand, the Red Cross more constantly and in a much less spectacular manner touches the routine of village, county and city life. Here in Burleigh county, it is a great clearing house for practically every phase of welfare work. There can be no beating of the tom toms nor brass band methods in advertising or popularizing this work which of necessity must be done without ostentation, free from publicity and in a guarded privacy of records.

Since the war the Burleigh County Red Cross chapter has been doing necessary and constructive work in the county and in Bismarck. In cooperation with civic and fraternal organizations, the chapter has organized a social registration bureau which functions along the lines of an associated charities preventing waste through ill advised and unworthy charity and duplication of effort by directing all relief measures along business-like lines.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Cashel, the general social welfare work has been most efficiently and most economically handled. Aid to this work is given by Burleigh county as Miss Cashel acts as juvenile officer and works with the district judge in his capacity as juvenile judge and with the county board of commissioners in the matter of mother's pensions and general relief work. A great saving to the taxpayers has been made in her effective work in weeding out chronic cases and preventing the foisting of paupers upon Burleigh whose residences are elsewhere.

There is contact with the city commission as the social welfare work for Bismarck is conducted through the Red Cross office and assistance has been given city officials in many relief cases which they have no time nor the opportunity to investigate. There is the best kind of cooperation between the city commissioners, the district judge and the county commissioners in this Red Cross work and all branches of government have shown a deep realization of the responsibility entailed.

Another phase of the work which in the past has overshadowed all other departments is the assistance given ex-servicemen, widows of late service men or their families. Daily there are calls to straighten out some phase of the red tape involved in getting pension claims through and in giving immediate relief until the slow machinery of the veterans' bureau is put into motion.

There is much to do in the future to keep these important agencies of community effort functioning properly. This work is only semi-official, however. The success of the work rests upon the interest shown and the responsibility shouldered by each member of the Red Cross in Burleigh county. An annual meeting has been called, March 20, in the Association of Commerce rooms. In the past only a perfunctory interest has been shown in these meetings, although the Red Cross chapter has always been well supported in Burleigh county when the call for financial aid was issued. What makes the Red Cross a living, vital thing is for its members to attend the annual meeting with a spirited offering of suggestions or criticisms so that the officials charged with the direction of the affairs of the chapter can feel this necessary and most essential contact with the membership body.

Ever since the Red Cross became active in Burleigh county a few have shouldered the responsibility of management. They have expected no honor nor glory out of the task and are satisfied with the results gained through a period dating back to those eventful days in August, 1914 when the Red Cross became the hope of millions for the mitigation of the terrors and rigors of war.

Local problems are still vital and affect the community life in a thousand ways. Show your appreciation of what the chapter has done by attending the annual meeting. Members who reside outside of Bismarck are urgently invited to attend and hear the various reports for the activities of the Red Cross embrace every portion of the county.

Let there be a representative gathering of the several hundred members enrolled in Burleigh county.

ARTIFICIAL GASOLINE
Artificial gasoline is perfected by the French chemist, Damiens, he claims. The process mixes sulphuric acid, copper oxide and ethylene, then heating and distilling. The big oil companies are not worried, for Damiens adds that the price of making his artificial gasoline is prohibitively high. That's usually the case with substitutes for basic commodities. Artificial rubber has been perfected, but can't be made as cheaply as the real thing. Damiens hopes to get his production cost down to 15 cents a gallon.

RUSSIA
Russia claims that its railroads in the last two years have hauled 29 tons of freight for every 100 tons moved before the war. The figure is expected to move up to 36 this year. Passenger traffic is about half of normal. This information is important, because Russia's economic collapse has been most acute in her transportation. The Red Bear is getting around better, though still limping badly.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues being discussed in the press of the day.

HARMONICA IN CONGRESS
While real political harmony may never be realized in governmental circles until the millennium, a certain form of harmony is rapidly making itself felt among the nation's leaders. The nationwide harmonica movement aroused largely by the widespread harmonica publicity furthered by M. Hahn has resulted in the "making up" of the harmonica by offical Washington.

A harmonica octet made up of members of the House of Representatives has been formed. This can now be supplemented by two prominent senators and a member of the president's cabinet who have become enthusiastic harmonica fans.

About a month ago three harmonicas were sent to James J. Davis, secretary of labor, for the use of the secretary's three children. Secretary Davis, who has been interested in music all his life and who has been actively interested in the promotion of good music in his official capacity, soon found himself a devotee of the instrument, playing it whenever he found the opportunity.

One of the fashions of the day is to select the four greatest men of the present century. Prominent thinkers and performers have been quoted as to their lists, and naturally most of them differ. Each one is governed by his own political tenets, policies, prejudices and ideas. Consequently no complete neutral selection can be made.

Greatness is largely relative, not only to others but to the times. Circumstances alter personalities and create greatness. Great principles tend to create great men. In the past, greatness was based upon war and government service. The biggest destroyer was the greatest man. The leaders who brought the most misery and hardships and blood upon the world was considered the greatest. Some still labor under that hallucination as is shown by the lists.

But in the present age, at least so far as the United States is concerned, the greatness which influences more people and touches them personally is found in other fields than that of politics. It is industry, business, science, invention and education, even amusement, which reaches into all the homes and governs our thoughts and actions, makes or unmakes morality.

One may find the greatest prize fighter by letting him kick all contenders, or the fastest horse, or the champion golf player. But we cannot satisfactorily determine who is the greatest man; to say that any one person has contributed the most to modern civilization is but to express the personal opinion of the speaker.—Lansing State Journal.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Twins told the king of Beantalk Land that they had found a box buried in the cornfield, which must be his lost treasure.

But the queen whispered, "Have a care, husband! These are the same creatures that jumped out of the seven-league boots and stole our throne from us. Perhaps this is another trick to get us away so rulers in our place."

"Not so fast," said the court cat. "The queen may be right. And you can thank me for putting the thieves off. I took them for a ride and lost them in a dream."

"And you can thank us," added the lords and ladies, "for not staying one minute where such dreadful things were going on. We hurried away as fast as we could go."

"Thank you for nothing, all of you!" declared the king. "I know what I know. The two children were right, and both the queen and I have slept much better since we have undone our wrong, and helped the people were unkind to."

"Of course!" exclaimed the king. "Come, everybody!" And then he said to the Twins, "Do you care if I borrow your magic boots? They are in that big chest."

The Twins had forgotten all about the seven-league boots that they had taken from one of the Beantalk giants.

"No, sir!" said Nick politely. "Only when you are through with them, please send them back to the giant to whom they belong. I don't know his name, but his wife wears a checkered sunbonnet and his daughter had a rose bush, and they keep a cow."

"I know the very one!" declared the Beantalk king, and he—

"Oh, do stop talking!" begged Nancy. "The treasure will think we are not coming, and he'll be so nervous he'll lose all his straw."

So the king got the boots and put them on, then he took the Twins on his shoulders and strode away to the cornfield, leaving the queen and the cat and the lords and ladies and the twenty stiff servants to follow if they wished.

"Dear, dear!" sighed the scarecrow with relief when they arrived. "I thought you never, never were coming. I've shivered so much that my broomstick back will never be straight again."

"Never mind," said the king. "If this box is my lost treasure, you shall have new stuffing and a new coat and one of my old crowns as a mark of honor, and a new backbone also."

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN

Well, it's all over, old man. Paula has been here and gone. She has come into my house and held her own child in her arms while I walked up and down on the other side of the street and cursed myself as I have never cursed in all my life and one or anything.

One moment I was afraid I would see Paula come out the door walking away with little John, the next moment I almost wished she would, anything so she would get out of my house.

Pretty soon, however, she came out and got into her car, with an inscrutable look on her face. I could not tell whether she was going to make trouble or let things lie.

It seemed hours before I could get up courage enough to go into the house, but when I did Leslie met me quite as casual as ever, telling me Paula had been there and that she would like to have had me come home before she left.

For a moment my knees trembled: then I sat down on a chair and managed to find the voice to ask what Paula said.

"She talked mostly about little Jack," she answered frankly, "and I was glad to be able to let her hold her child in her arms."

SOCIETY

Mrs. Seandee gave a delightful tea to the charming members of the young married set the other day. The latest bride was worried. "What do you and your husband find to talk about?" she asked a friend. "Why," replied the surprised friend, "married women don't have to talk. All they do is sit and look at the back of a newspaper."

Clavering, expecting to find her dissolved in tears, and, violent as his sympathy for her was, rejoicing that she was the part to comfort her, followed her precipitately. But she was standing by the table with scornful lips and eyes.

"I thought you'd be all broken up," he stammered. Tears of disappointment almost rose to his own eyes.

She laughed shortly. "If I do suppose I would pay them so great a compliment? But what a ridiculous exhibition they made of themselves. It seems incredible."

"But surely you must have been hurt—and stabbed. It isn't possible that you weren't!"

"Oh, yes, I was stabbed, but I think I was even more amused. I felt sorry for the poor things. I certainly never saw a more comically naked exhibition of human nature. It was worth coming to America for. Nor do I blame them. No doubt I should have felt the same at their age—although I hope should even then have expressed myself in a fashion a trifle more subtle, a little less primeval."

"Good God! Are you always so—so rational?"

She smiled slightly. "If I deliberately unlearned the more valuable things a long life taught me here would be no object beyond unity in being young again. And don't you suppose I was grateful o'clock for one of their rare tramps. She wore high-laced boots of soft leather, a short skirt and jersey and a soft hat; and if she had met any of her guests of that memorable dinner they would have looked profoundly thoughtful, and resounded whatever hope of having soared her to the bone they may have cherished. She strode through the woods above the Palladas beside Clavering with high head and sparkling eyes, her arms swinging like a schoolboy's. It was evident even to him, who had waited for her so anxiously, that she had rubbed a sponge over her memory. She was in high spirits and looked as if she had not a care in the world.

There was a soft mist of green on the trees of the wood, a few birds had already migrated northward, their own world-old wireless having warned them of the early awakening of spring after an unusually mild winter, and they were singing their matins.

She did not seem inclined for more than desultory conversation, but she had the gift of making silence eloquent, and Clavering, his fears banished, although by no means at peace, gave himself up to the pleasure of the moment. They walked briskly for several miles, then had their breakfast at a roadside inn; and both were so hungry that they talked even less than before. But there was little need for words between them; the current was too strong, and both were merely vital beings to whom companionship and healthy exercise were the highest good at the moment.

"Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?" she asked softly.

tonight for my years—those years crowded with training and experience? Who better prepared than I to hold my own against a lot of saw Americans?"

"That is the first human thing you've said. Raw? Wasn't it Darwin who said that we are all such a short distance, in time, removed from our common savage ancestors that it is a wonder we don't revert often to them?"

"Heaven men are more civilized than women."

"Oh, no, but they revert on the grand scale. I cannot say I was totally unprepared—not for such a concerted and shocking exhibition of course; but I've felt their antagonism and expected to be dropped gradually from their set. Of course, this is the end."

"Absolutely. However," she shrugged her shoulders again. "I have enjoyed the New York which seems to have changed in so many ways since my day, and all dramas should have a proper curtain, shouldn't they?"

"Oh! He turned his back on her and leaned on the mantelpiece, dropping his head on his arms. He had never felt so far away from her when he had been unable to learn even her name. What need had she of him or any man?"

Mary gave him a quick comprehending glance, and came out of her isolation. She went over to him, turned him around, and took his face between her hands.

"Can't you imagine what it meant to me to have you there?" she asked softly. "It seemed to me that nothing else mattered. We two are in a world of our own. How could they seem more to me than the buzzing of so many brainless insects? Forget it, and I shall."

But although he was consoled, he wondered, as he left the house, if he would ever feel more depressed in his life. She might love him, but what else could he ever be to her but a lover? His manhood rebelled. If she had only flung herself weeping into his arms, if for once he could have felt himself stronger than she—indispensable.

"Let's not talk about either of them any more, Leslie. I hope this whole Perrier storm is blowing over."

"Was there a storm? I didn't know it." And then Syd, that bleached woman, linked her arm in mine and said:

"Come on, Jack; let's go into the nursery and see our boy."

I felt my eyes grow moist and my conscience kept saying: "You don't deserve it, you don't deserve it."

Goodby, old man, until the next time.

JACK.

XXXIX

The dinner was on Monday. On Wednesday morning she met him at the Fort Lee Ferry at seven

During the long walk back to the ferry she talked with a certain excitement. But it was all of the woods of Austria, the carefully tended woods with their leaping stags, their winding paths where no trolley-cars overlaid with commuters rushed shrieking by, their enchanting vistas with a green lake at the end, or a monastery, or a castle on a lofty rock. She told him of the river Inn roaring through its gorges, with its solitary mills, its clustered old villages huddled at the foot of the heavy silent woods and forgotten by the world. The millers were all old men now, no doubt, and the poor villages inhabited only by women and children. Of blindness and broken men who had dragged themselves back from the war to exist where they once had given life and energy to that quiet valley of the Inn. If this made her sad for a moment it was purely an impersonal sadness, and when they parted on the New York side of the ferry Clavering had forgotten his doubts and went back to his work with a light heart and an untrodden mind.

The play was almost finished, and its chances for swift production were far greater than is usually the case with the new adventure into the most inhospitable of all fields of artistic endeavor. Adrian Hogarth, who had a play on Broadway every year, and Edwin Sorens, who had recently exchanged the esteem of the few for the enthusiasm of the public, had read it act by act and given him the practical advice he needed. A dramatic critic always believes he knows more about plays than any one else until he attempts to write one, but Clavering, at least, if not unduly modest, was too anxious to succeed not to welcome all the help he could get.

They even "sat in" with him during the final revision, and the dispute was not over the last act, an act so daring in technique they were loath to believe that even Clavering, whose striking gifts they had always recognized, could "put it over." Moreover, there was only one woman on the American stage who could act it and that was Margaret Anglin. If it didn't appeal to her he might as well dock it. The younger actresses, clever as some of them were, had so far given no evidence of sustained emotional power.

PALATINATE FINE FIELD FOR POLITICS

Speyer, Bavarian Palatinate, March 12.—The Palatinate, which Separatists are endeavoring to create into an independent government, is about as large in area as Rhode Island and Delaware combined, and it has roughly about the same population. It covers about 3,000 square miles and its people number a little more than 800,000.

But the strategic location along the west shore of the Rhine, and its mountain range which offers a position which would make an easy line of defense for the French, render the territory especially desirable as a buffer state between France and the German republic.

The Rhine divides the Palatinate from Bavaria to which it belongs. Consequently it stands in an isolated position, and is seldom visited by outsiders because of the present upset condition of transportation through the Rhine area. There are endless delays and passport controls as the rail lines pass into different sectors, and luggage is examined so often that outsiders give the occupied area a wide berth.

This state of affairs has made the Palatinate an especially fine field for political adventures. Four years ago there was an abortive attempt to create a republic, under the auspices of the French forces, so the Palatinate residents assert, but it failed.

The independent government which Herr Heitz declared last year did not last for a year. There was so much confusion in Germany, and Bavaria was so occupied with its Hitler and Ludendorff troubles, that little attention was paid to the isolated Palatinate. But when the Bavarians turned the spotlight on the Heitz government, and the British began to make public the alleged activities of the French occupation forces in support of Heitz, the so-called autonomous government of Free Peasants, the situation was altered.

Then came the murder of President Heitz and several of his associates by armed men. This act of violence resulted in an inspection by Consul General Clive, the British representative at Munich, which has taken the Palatinate Separatist movement out of the twilight zone and let the world know what the conditions are in this district.

To this move the French objected, but nevertheless Mr. Clive reports that the Separatists have very slight support from the Palatinate population, and would last a very short time if it were not that General de Metz, in command of the French occupation forces, and his Moroccans troops are giving them countenance.

Bishop Sebastian of Speyer, head of the Catholic church in the Palatinate, and the president of the Protestant Church organization are among the bitterest opponents of the movement to create an independent Palatinate.

Adolph Bley, who has succeeded Heitz as president of the so-called Palatinate autonomous government, and his associates in the cabinet, now have charge of the Palatinate government building in Speyer. Heavily armed sentinels guard them, and the French military headquarters building, immediately across the street from the headquarters of the so-called independent government, is patrolled by jeffered Moroccans which make it doubly certain that no attack will be made by the Palatinate population upon the government which few residents of the district support.

The Separatist army is a strange assortment of imported delinquents, numbering in all probably not more than 200, but it is officered by trained soldiers and has abundant equipment. The anti-Separatists say the army was given all its arms and equipment by the French, and is paid and fed by the French military command.

Small children reflect the attitude of the public toward the Separatist government building and make faces at the guards, who angrily put the scoffing youngsters to flight.

The legal government of the Palatinate, which was routed by the Separatists, or rather was expelled by the French military, has taken up its offices temporarily in Heidelberg by courtesy of the Badenese government.

HE STARTED IT Editor Magee Wondered "Where'd He Get It?" Blew Lid Off Teapot

CARL C. MAGEE

By NEA Service

Washington, March 12.—Albuquerque, New Mexico, is famous for its healthy climate. It has made many sick folks well.

Yet it is the very healthfulness of Albuquerque that is responsible for the present troubles for Albert B. Magee, former U. S. senator and cabinet member, and for the "nerves" of a score of political leaders.

For had Albuquerque not offered a chance for health to his wife, Carl C. Magee would not have been on a law practice of 16 years' standing in Tulsa, Okla., to go there.

Had Magee not gone to Albuquerque he would not have been the center of an inside political fight in New Mexico the past four years.

He Raised Question
And had Magee not been on the inside of what was what in New Mexico, he would not have stood before the Senate committee investigating Fall's leasing of naval oil lands and demanded:

"Where did he get it?"
That query, first raised before the committee by Magee, turned the attention of the committee from routine consideration of whether the leases made by Fall had been wisely made to the matter of whether corrupt considerations had entered into their making.

Following Magee's challenge of "Where did he get it?" the committee unearthed the evidence of $100,000 delivered to Fall in a satchel by the son of Edward Doheny, one of Fall's lessees.

When Magee went to Albuquerque in 1920, he purchased the Albuquerque Morning Journal, then owned by Fall, John W. Weeks, now secretary of war, the Chino Copper Company, and other interests.

Right away he started saying what he thought.
He lambasted the administration of school lands which gave grazing privileges to a few influential politico-ranchers.

He dug into the tax situation which let rich mining interests pay low taxes if they made big political contributions.

He revealed how private bank accounts were being fattened by the interest on public funds privately deposited.

Then his notes were called. In the showdown, Magee was forced to sell his paper.

Immediately, though, he started another.

Followed every sort of pressure and intimidation suits for libel, citations for contempt of court, fines, sentences to prison.

But, fighting every inch, Magee so roused popular support that the governor was forced to pardon him.

Fall Broke, Then—
"When I was called to Washington to testify before the committee investigating the oil leases," Magee says, "I simply studied the layout as New Mexico politics transplanted to federal affairs."

"I knew that Fall had been broke in 1920. He told me so at the time he sold the Journal. His taxes hadn't been paid for 10 years, his ranch was run down and dilapidated. 'I knew that the o. leases were made in 1921. I knew that by 1922 a new air of prosperity had come to Fall's ranch. I knew that he had made large deposits of cash in Albuquerque banks."

"He had bought adjoining ranch properties, built a hydro-electric plant and spent large sums in improving his place. His back taxes had been paid."

"Viewing the situation in the light of normal New Mexico politics, the inevitable question was: 'Where did he get it?'"

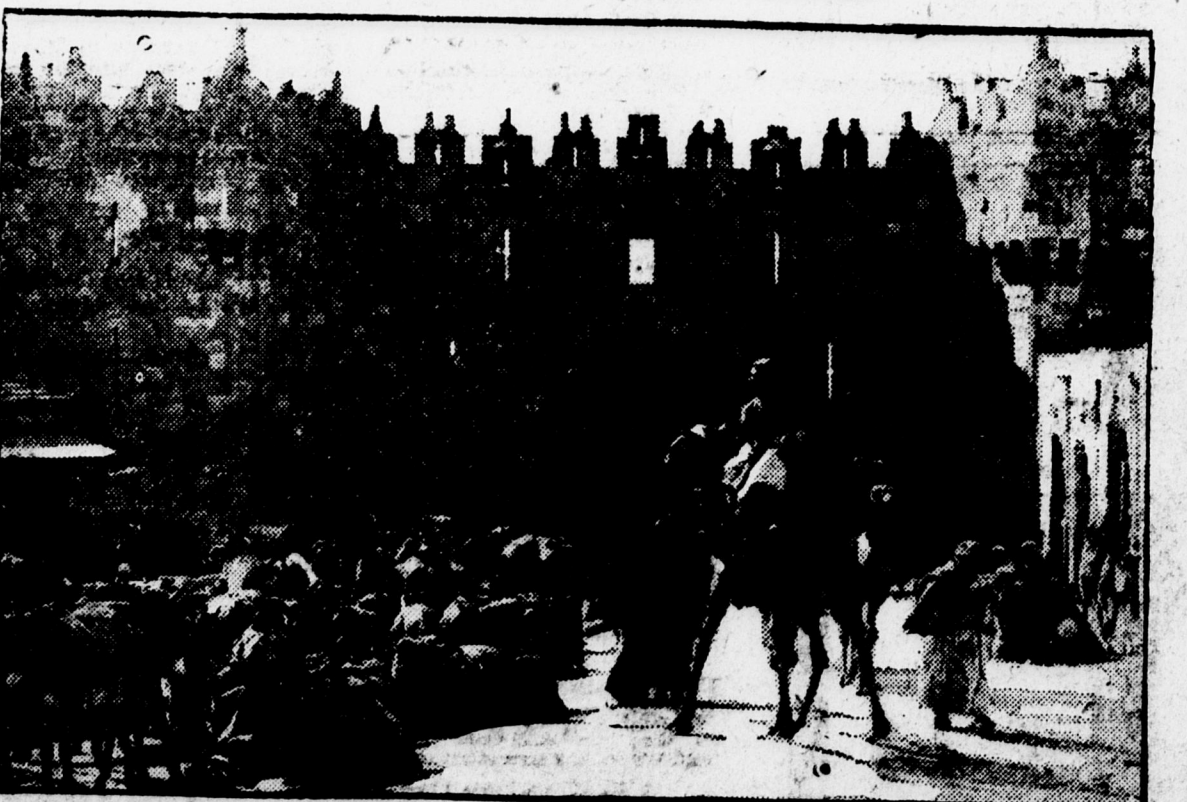

"Out gun war, particularly in politics, that question leads straight to the heart of most problems."

Voters Themselves May Bring Liquor Quiz

CHARLES F. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 11.—Prohibition is one of the subjects Congress is being urged to include among the investigations it's conducting now or about to start on soon.

That it's a subject which recalls with corruption, wets and drys alike.

But here's where they differ: Voters say prohibition has corrupted politics.

I say politics has corrupted prohibition.

Most drys admit prohibition hasn't worked, but they say it can be made to do so. The wets say it can't.

Two Sides To It
The wets say: Let's show, for the whole country to see, that prohibition has failed, and having done so, end or modify it.

The drys said: Let's find out, by investigation, why the law doesn't work, and fix it so it will.

The wets unquestionably do want an investigation. Senator Edwards of New Jersey is demanding one in the Senate; Representative Hill of Maryland, in the House. Nobody doubts that they mean it.

The drys say the same thing. If they could make sure it would be an investigation designed to STRENGTHEN prohibition, they'd mean it, too. But no matter what kind of an investigation is started, they're afraid the wets will turn it into an ATTACK.

Not Afraid of Facts
As Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, says:

"The friends of prohibition are not afraid of facts, but a dragnet investigation by opponents of enforcement can accomplish no good purpose."

So the drys oppose any investigation at all.

And this Congress is predominantly dry. It certainly will not vote an investigation in either House if it can avoid doing so.

There are some signs that, maybe, it can't.

Hints from constituents show there are a good many voters who'd cast dry ballots next election if they thought a dry victory would mean a dry country, but who certainly will vote for modification of the law rather than have things stay the way they are now.

If an investigation is the only way of placating this element and if the dry congressmen decide it is an element strong enough to affect election results seriously, an investigation it will have to be.

If it doesn't come now, it will come before long. Enforcement—or non-enforcement—is too much of a scandal to stay bottled up.

To Improve German Cooking

Heidelberg, March 12.—University professors have interested themselves in a movement to improve the German cooking. Too much attention is paid to quantity by the German cooks. It is contended, and not enough to quality. German cooking in the sixteenth century equalled that of any other country, say the domestic science experts, but during the Thirty Years' War the culinary art lost prestige and flavor which have never been regained.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD
BY NELLIE MAXWELL
COOKING WITH BRAINS
THERE is nothing in the field of food so deadly to the appetite as a monotonous diet, and "the why is the limit" for a cook who can supply plain and intelligent demands of the husbands and sons. Such conditions are entirely too ideal to ever be reached, as where one may be fairly reached the other is wholly lacking.
The normal person, properly trained, is able to eat and enjoy all kinds of food that are good and well cooked. There will be degrees of enjoyment, as some like one better than another, but the physical, fussy eater is largely so from bad training, if he is well, and thus, morose.
We all know what the artist said when asked what he mixed his paints. We need more of that essential (brains) in all of our cooking and eating of foods.
The great majority of middle class and people of wealth eat too much—they live to eat. Then there are those who through indoor work or inactivity have no appetite and in consequence refuse to eat because they are not hungry.
Foods must be pleasant to the taste to increase the flow of the gastric juice, and as the eye is the first to receive impressions, food must be made attractive in appearance so that it will be tasted.
It has been proved too often to quote that worry and nervousness will retard or entirely stop the process of digestion; so, too, we need to put away everything of that sort, when possible, or wait to eat until more composed.
When judgment tells us that food is good and wholesome common sense will tell us to cultivate a liking for it.
We need roughage, like spinach or Chinese vegetables, or else the 30 feet of food canal will be idle and when idle there is always mischief, and we pay in countless ways.

THERE is nothing in the field of food so deadly to the appetite as a monotonous diet, and "the key is the limit" for a cook who can supply plain and intelligent cooking for the plain and intelligent demands of the husbands and sons. Such conditions are entirely too ideal to ever be reached, as where one may be fairly reached the other is wholly lacking.

PALATINATE FINE FIELD FOR POLITICS

Spencer, Bismarck, March 12.—The Palatinate, which is an independent principality, is about as large as Rhode Island and Delaware combined, and it has roughly about the same population. It covers about 7,000 square miles and its people number a little more than 300,000.

But the strategic location along the western border of the Rhine, and its position which would make it a very fine of defense for the French, render the territory especially desirable as a buffer state between France and the German people.

The Rhine divides the Palatinate from Bavaria to which it belongs. Consequently it finds it an awkward position and is seeking to get out of its present position. It is a small state, but it is a very important one. It is a very important one. It is a very important one.

Then came the murder of President Hertz and the death of his son. This act of violence resulted in an investigation by Consul General Clive, the British representative at Munich, who has taken the Palatinate separatist movement out of the twilight zone and let the world know what the conditions are in this district.

To this move, the French objected, but nevertheless, Mr. Clive reports that the separatists have won a slight support from the Palatinate population, and would lead a very short time if it were not that General de Metz, in command of the French occupation forces, and his Moroccan troops are giving them no countenance.

Bishop Schuler, of Speyer, head of the Catholic church in the Palatinate, and the president of the Protestant Church organization are among the bitterest opponents of the movement to create an independent Palatinate.

Adolf Blei, who has succeeded Hertz as president of the separatist Palatinate autonomous government, and his associates in the movement have charge of the Palatinate government building in Speyer. Hertz, armed with a revolver, and the French military headquarters building, immediately across the street from the headquarters of the separatist government, were attacked by a mob of about 100 persons, who made it doubly certain that no attack will be made by the Palatinate population upon the government which few residents of the district support.

The separatist army is a strange combination of men, probably not more than 200 in all, and is composed of trained soldiers and has abundant equipment. The separatists say the army was given all its arms and equipment by the French military command.

Small children witness the parade of the public toward the separatist government building and make faces at the guard, who are armed with rifles and bayonets.

VICTOR, March 12.—Albuquerque, N. M., March 12.—A teapot, which was found in the stomach of a man who died in a hospital here, was the subject of a humorous story in the local press.

Yet it is the very healthfulness of Albuquerque that is responsible for the present troubles of Albert B. Fall, former U. S. senator and ex-territorial governor, and for the move of a score of other politicians.

Had Magee not been in the center of the scandal, it might not have been so much of a scandal. It might not have been so much of a scandal. It might not have been so much of a scandal.

Where did he get it? That was the question. That was the question. That was the question. That was the question. That was the question.

Proposals for dormitory. Sealed proposals for the erection of a dormitory at the State Training School, Mandan, N. D., in accordance with plans and specifications by Van Horn & Bittern, Architects, of Bismarck, N. D., will be received by the State Board of Administration, Capital, Bismarck, N. D., until 2 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, March 12, 1924.

Proposals shall be sealed and marked "Proposals for Dormitory," and accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond in favor of Ernest G. Wanner, Executive Secretary, for five per cent (5%) of the tender.

Be it enacted by the legislative assembly of the State of North Dakota: Sec. 2. Boards of County Commissioners and the tax commissioner are hereby authorized to compromise and settle taxes assessed upon bank stock for the years 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, which have not already been compromised, settled, and paid upon the same basis of settlement upon which nearly all of the banks of the state have paid taxes for such years.

The last session of the legislature passed Senate Bill No. 277, which bill contains three sections, section one (1) and three (3) made valid a tax that the Supreme Court previously, in an opinion had declared invalid, and section two (2) attempts to authorize and ratify the unlawful attempt of the State Tax Commissioner under the direction of the Governor and the Attorney General, to authorize and consummate the compromise and remission of one half of the tax, which section one (1) and three (3) of the law declared to be a just and valid tax upon all bank stock.

But the real object of the law now seems to be by stealth and deception, to force the banks of the state to pay their taxes and to ratify the attempted compromise with the banks on the basis of 50% reduction of the bank stock and taxes. If you vote "No" in the square set opposite to the word "No" you will do no injustice to any one, but will very greatly contribute towards the reduction of the tax bill of all who pay their taxes on a 100% basis. If you are heavily burdened with taxes, but your cross in the square set opposite "No" is a do not permit yourselves to be put to sleep with the statement that the law was designed and passed in order that five per cent of the banks might be forced to pay the tax in full, such representations may fairly be said to be fraudulent.

To Improve German Cooking

Heidelberg, March 12.—University professors have interested themselves in a movement to improve the German cooking. Too much attention is paid to quantity by the German cooks, it is contended, and not enough to quality. German cooking in the sixteenth century equaled that of any other country, say the domestic science experts, but during the Thirty Years War the culinary art lost prestige and flavor which have never been regained.

New York, March 12.—Negotiations for a large credit to the French government, estimated as high as $50,000,000 for the purpose of stabilizing French exchange are under way with American bankers but have not been definitively concluded, it was authoritatively learned last night. Private cable advices received here yesterday indicated that a similar credit had been arranged with London bankers.

The credit, if arranged, will take the form of advances to the Bank of France through a straight bank loan operation. The transaction will be limited to a few of the larger banks. No public offering is contemplated.

CANADIAN PAPER REVIEWS TRIBUNE'S FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY EDITION

A copy of the Winnipeg Free Press, in which the fiftieth anniversary edition of the Bismarck Tribune is reviewed, has been received by The Tribune. The Canadian paper, in its review of the edition, praises the growth of the city since its frontier days. The review follows:

"Old Days of 'Lurid' Bismarck Told of Interesting Issue.

"Last year, when a number of papers, provinces, states and cities were having anniversaries, there came from the press in a certain well-equipped building in a prominent North Dakota town the fiftieth anniversary number of North Dakota's oldest newspaper.

"The fiftieth anniversary of the Bismarck Tribune made a number of old-time Winnipeggers, who could remember back to the time when there was no North Dakota at all, feel old. One of the fathers of Winnipeg, E. L. Barber, whose widow is still alive, was prominent in Dakota territory before he came to Winnipeg in the late sixties of last century.

"The Bismarck Tribune was founded July 6, 1878, by Col. Clement A. Lounsbury, who lived to see the fiftieth anniversary of its birth.

WILLYS MAKES ANOTHER HIGH MONTH'S RECORD

President John N. Willys of Willys-Overland announces another new production record with February shipments of 22,136 Willys-Knight and Overland cars, an average of more than a thousand cars a day for the 22 working days of the month.

The peak shipping point for one day reached during the month was 1,208 cars.

Paralleling this increase in shipping is the increase in return of retail sales certificates from dealers in the field, which is the one accurate method of measuring the success of keeping check on actual retail purchases. According to reports from the office of the comptroller retail sales certificates returned during February are practically double those of a year ago, which is taken by officials of the factory as evidence of steady buying activity throughout the colder weather periods.

Indications of early spring buying are presaged by the unusually great number of driveaways from the factory as soon as the zero weather of early February had abated. A new high mark for the year was registered on the 26th when 468 cars were driven away.

Added facilities for the handling of a great volume of driveaways were completed with the opening of the new Dealers' Driveaway Headquarters.

This is a new factory unit, a three-story brick building, 48,181 feet and with a floor space of 113,523 feet. Fifteen hundred cars can be stored in the building, each floor being accessible by long ramps of runways.

The building is designed and equipped to render more efficient service to dealers calling at the factory for cars. It contains a large reception room, cashier's office and other conveniences for the visiting dealers and drivers. It is expected that the new building will permit the handling of a greater volume of shipments.

MOVIE CENSORS HAVE BIG JOB IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 12.—Children who pay out their nickels and dimes to get behind the closed doors of the movie theatre sometimes envy members of the board of moving picture censors of Chicago, who see every picture before it is released for showing in this city. But if they were to take up the duties of the censors the task possibly would be found no labor of choice.

For much work is necessary before the approval or disapproval of the board is placed upon a picture. Viewed the picture is not only required, but numerous conferences are necessary before final action is taken. As an example, 589,500 feet of pictures were examined last January. In one day 51 reels of pictures) each one thousand feet long, were passed upon.

When the picture is received from the moving picture exchange, which is required to submit every picture brought into the city to the board, a record is made of its title, number of feet and the producer, along with other data. The picture is then taken to the projection room, where three screens, three projection machines, and three operators are used to speed up its showing.

While the picture is being shown, members of the board take notes, after which they confer on action to be taken. The picture is taken up in a chronological manner, the objection of each censor being thoroughly discussed. Then a vote is taken as to whether such and such a part of the picture is to be cut out. A majority vote rules.

After a picture is passed upon the exchange is notified what parts have been cut and the picture returned to the exchange, with a record of what is necessary to delete. After the objectionable parts are removed, they are returned to the board for final approval and a permit issued for the showing of the picture. If an exchange has ten different sets of the same picture a separate permit is necessary for each set.

Members of the board are Mrs. Irving McDowell, Miss Effie Sigler, Miss Edith Kerr, William Faust, Mrs. Anna Costello, Clarence O'Connell and the Rev. Alonzo Bowling, with Miss Alice Miller as chief censor.

Cement Best For Road Marks

Harrisburg, Pa., March 12.—White traffic dividing lines are to be built into concrete roads instead of being painted upon them each season, according to William M. Connell, engineering executive of the Pennsylvania department of highways. In the center of the road on grades and curves a four-inch strip of white cement will be built.

Mr. Connell pointed out that the cost of building the line into the pavement will not equal the cost of a painted white line with the necessary renewals.
